The first step is for the City Assessor to determine the market value of the property. While the term market value would seemingly re how much the property would sell for on the open market, in reality the market value established by the City Assessor is almost a substantially lower.

Land market value	$600,000
Building market value	+ $3,173,000
Market value	= $3,773,000

Assessed Value

Next, the market value is used to compute the assessed value, which is a percentage of the market value. The exact percentage is determined by the tax class of the property. Tax class 1 is assessed at 6% of the market value, and tax classes 2,3 and 4 are assessed at 45%.

Market value		$3,773,000
Assessment ratio	x	45%
Maximum assessed value	=	$1,697,850

Transitional Value

To protect property owners from sudden large increases in property tax, the state limits how quickly the city can increase the assessed value. Typically these limits are applied when the City Assessor makes a big increase to the market value. Without the limits the assessed value would increase by a similar percentage. Instead, the change to the assessed value is phased in over a number of years.

The market value of this property was increased in previous years and the assessed value is currently being phased in. Because this property is in tax class 2, the assessment cannot be raised more than 8% from the year before or 30% over five years. Assessed value cannot be raised more than 45% from market value.

Assessed value		$1,697,850
Net assessed value	=	$1,309,095

Subject: Fwd: 111 Sullivan # 2BR
To: Laskowitz, Shari <slaskowitz@ingramllp.com>

Good evening Ms. Laskowitz,

Apparently, there is a pipe issue that stems from below my floorboards (allegedly, per the plumbers). The fire department came to my apartment (because there was a leak/flood throughout the entire building) and I permitted them to inspect the premise (2BR) - I can assure you, there is no leak or flood which emanates from my unit.

In furtherance, Adman (the building manager?) has informed me they will need to rupture my floors to access the pipes below, and I am more than happy to provide them access to repair whatever needs to be done first thing in the morning tomorrow morning (5/25) - provided that this is essential and completely unavoidable. My only question here is why would they not conduct their construction from downstairs? The tenant apparently moved out, as I did get a chance to speak with her earlier this week... she had mentioned she will be moving to Connecticut.

This scenario instilled from the repair of my window by an unbeknownst stranger (wearing no mask) who had insisted on conducting a previously scheduled repair without any advance notice. Ordinarily, I would have been more than happy to accommodate something to this effect and I do apologize, however, I am sure you understand that my classes, research, and deadlines supersede these nonsensical disruptions from your service providers.

With that said, I was under the impression that Paul Regan stood as counsel for the Landlord...

I respectfully appreciate your letter and request (in advance) to enter; moreso while considering the brash nature of an unbeknownst bang on my door from a stranger insisting on completing this inessential repair in my 200 square foot studio. This more likely than not prompted your letter dated May 22nd, which stems from damages caused by the object thrown through my window. This remains boarded-up as the repair originally scheduled roughly two weeks ago has yet to be completed.

They did not show up for the initial date/time, and also did not call or attempt to re-schedule a repair.

In furtherance, the only number available to me from the manager is 212-835-9270 and I left a message to reflect both my acknowledgment and approval for early access to the premises tomorrow morning at 7AM - and dually accept this as acceptance with respect to your letter on May 26th at 10 AM; I would appreciate your understanding that my physical presence here is mandatory in light of the aforementioned inspection conducted by the New York City Fire Department today.

Please keep in mind, I will not permit or tolerate any exaggeration of what may be construed as an "inevasible" intrusion to my privacy in light of what you are being told by the plumbers. This can loosely translate to abuse directed at the Landlord as real-estate firms have significantly reduced their overhead - and perhaps your "subservient(s)" are in fear of losing their jobs as well.

I am not here to encumber your business or cause any disruption, by any means, and apologize for not responding to you sooner. The deadlines for my upcoming assignments and responsibilities to Columbia begin first on May 26th and are of great importance to me - perhaps a phone call can save us both some time.

Very sorry for your having to deal with this nonsense, you can reach out to me directly at 917-378-3467.

Respectfully,

Bo Dincer.

5. Exemptions and Tax Abatements

Both the City and State of New York offer property tax reductions through exemptions and abatements for residential property, commercial constructions, and properties used by governmental, industrial, and nonprofit organizations. Exemptions provide tax relief by reducing a property's assessed value, and abatements reduce taxes by applying credits to the amount of tax due. The information in this section presents a summary of the granted amounts and other related values of the benefit programs. Some of this data comes from NYC Department of Housing Preservation and Development (HPD) and the Department of Finance, departments which administer the 421 Program, 421b Program and the Cooperative and Condominium program .

Well my studio was 150 SQFT, at 400 a foot. Y'all can do math right? I guess with closing costs... mortgage taxes, upfront and all that.. ballpark $80,000.00.

At least that's what they pay on the assessed value for taxes, so to insure would be ... another failure to report the underlying risks of the value insured. Or something like that, whatever it says in the document it's the same thing. Trust me.

I am in receipt of your letter dated August 10th and with respect to your request, I submit this statement and with all due respect, I respond via email.

I have not submitted any false information at any time or filed fallacious claims with any enforcement agency. I was informed The Better Business Bureau does not enforce certain matters, and were deemed and represented in a laundry list actions, for instance:

The aforementioned complaint can be amended, and any evidence entered will also be subject to the enforcement by the Better Business Bureau, as deemed appropriate and in their purview in these matters.

Matters previously enforced by the Federal Trade Commission are applicable in this case, and to serve in the interest of proper controls, procedures, and a means of guidance and considerations of Reasonable Conduct by Corporations who conduct business in The United States.
